

New designer front panels with graphic features

Charming focal eye-catchers

The demands on the aesthetics of kitchen furniture have risen very considerably over the past few years as they are frequently the very focus of the home. Reason enough for Häcker Kitchens to launch two new designer front panels at the 2013 in-house trade fair – permitting highly customised design of base and wall units.

As the name suggests, the AV 7050 Floral décor impresses by dint of a stylised flower. It covers the entire width and height of the front panel on base cabinets, while it is limited to a single 'ornament' opposite the hinge in the case of wall cabinets. In turn, the AV 7051 Canyon décor is a facsimile of a graphic rock landscape, covering the entire front panel of the respective cabinet. Both of these designer front panels are available in 60-, 90- and 120-cm widths and in a total of eight different colours – from shades of white, grey all the way through to the new Night blue colourway.

With these decorative front panels, Häcker offers kitchen designers two extremely attractive designs with which they can also design charming individual pieces of customised furniture. They are also perfect for dining and living rooms if these spaces are to be visually merged with the kitchen.

About Häcker Kitchen

The owner-run family company Häcker has been manufacturing modern fitted kitchens at its site in Rödinghausen, east Westphalia – the home of the German kitchen furniture industry – since 1965. In 2012, approximately 1,100 employees generated a turnover of 383 million euros, with exports currently accounting for around 40 percent of sales. The development of the company is characterised by continuous growth and future-oriented investment. Currently, more than 60 countries spread across all continents are supplied with “Made in Germany” kitchens. The specialised trade has two product lines available for the various market segments: classic and classicART for the entry level and systemat and systematART for the middle and upper price segments.
